PIRC Notification

The Florida Parental Information and Resource Center at the University of South Florida (Florida PIRC at USF) is a federally funded project of the US Department of Education which began in October, 2006. Our office is located on Fletcher Avenue in Tampa.

The Florida PIRC at USF provides training and technical assistance to schools and districts on ways to effectively involve parents in their children's education in order for all students to achieve at the highest academic level. The Florida PIRC at USF also helps schools and districts meet the requirements for parent involvement of the No Child Left Behind (NCLB), Title I legislation. The Florida PIRC at USF especially seeks to support families of children who may be educationally disadvantaged because of economic factors, differences in language, or learning challenges. Significant emphasis also is given to supporting early childhood parent education, recognizing that a solid foundation for learning is best established in the early years.

The goals of the PIRC are designed to increase parents' knowledge, skills, and confidence in becoming engaged in their children's education in meaningful ways as well as to increase the knowledge of educators in parental involvement that is related to academic achievement. Mission: To empower Florida's families to support children's academic success through leading edge parent involvement practices and partnerships.
